The Prize Awarded!

Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co.
Wins the Prize at the World's Fair with their
"EAGLE" Brand Beer.

St. Louis, Oct. 28, 1903.
Messrs. Macfarlane & Co., Ltd., Honolulu, H. I.

Dear Sir: We have mailed you a copy of the Times-Herald announcing the great victory won by the Anheuser-Busch Association with their "EAGLE" Brand of Beer.

Signed: ANHEUSER-BUSCH BREWING ASSO-CIATION.

(Special Dispatch to Times-Herald.)

World's Fair, Chicago, Ill., Oct. 28 - No award has ever been made so gratifying to St. Louis people and so justly merited as the one given today by the Columbian jury of the World's Fair, consisting of commissioners and clients of the highest rank, to the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association.
By methods of unexcelled business enterprise, and by using the best material produced in America and Europe, excluding corn and other adulterants or surrogates, the different kinds of the Anheuser-Busch beer have become the favorites with the American people and have now conquered the highest award in every particular which had to be considered by the Columbian jury. The high character of the award given today by the jurors will be better understood when it is known that the different beers exhibited by the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association had to compete with hundreds of the most excellent displays of other brewers. The fact that no other concern has received so many prizes for the various essential qualities of good beer confirms anew the firm's reputation as the leader of all American beers, and Mr. Adolphus Busch can feel proud over this result so justly merited.

The above is a fac-simile of the Label of the "EAGLE" Brand which took the Prize.

In ordering this Beer be sure to ask for the "EAGLE" Brand.

"Yes, I don't think it has got as far as a promise yet. Betty, I should be sorry to have my little girl break her heart for love of a lad like Burt."

"And so should I, he is not worthy to kneel at the feet of our Dora."

"That is true, Betty; of course in a social sense, he is above her, but she has a heart of gold and I hope she may yet meet some good, true man who will value it at its worth."

"I hope so too," said Mrs. Dean, "and, if I may make so bold, I hope he may be as good and kind hearted as her father."

"Tut, tut, Betty, I wish her a better than I; but Dora is so different from Jean or Nell - she has very strict ideas of duty and it requires quite a little tact to guide her; I find that much sympathy with her results badly. Argument is better, for she then combats these occasional moods of despondency. Sympathy is all very well, but quite often it touches some random chord of grief that vibrates almost to breaking. I have always endeavored to teach her to ponder well before speaking, but she is impulsive and does not always reflect.

Her thoughts coin themselves into words as soon as she formulates them.
If she has given Burt the least hint of a promise she will deem it binding I know. Well, we must hope for the best. I'll go in now, Betty; thank you for your kindness to her."

As the miller walked toward the house memory limned this picture before him:

A brown-haired little girl of eight years, grave and earnest beyond her age, sitting on a low stool at his feet, her elbows on her knees and her face held between her two chubby hands, gazing up in his face.

His two elder daughters, Jean and Nell, seated near, and all with the effective light and flickering shadows from the hearth around them.

And again he hears the short, jerked sentences of the little penitents, and sees the play of mixed emotions on the faces of his older daughters.

"I was naughty in school today - but a story - teacher whipped me - that was why I was crying when I came home - I didn't want Burt to be whipped - I wouldn't tell a story for myself you know - do you think God forgives us if we tell stories for others - I mean to help others if we don't mean to be bad? You see it was like this - just as if Jean here was Burt and I was myself, and Jean whispered to me and the teacher heard and asked who it was and then Jean - Burt, you know, looked at me, and teacher asked if I had whispered, so I held up my hand - then teacher whipped me - not hard - but it made me cry pretty much - pretty hard I mean * * *

He can see again the sudden blaze of wrath and scorn that sweeps over Jean's finely moulded intellectual face as she impulsively catches Dora in her arms and half smothers her with kisses, while he bends over the hearth and makes a pretence of stirring the embers to hide his own emotion, as Nell says:

"Poor little sister! God will value one such story more than thousands of studied truths."

And the old miller ponders: "The brave-hearted little thing must have loved him then and God help her!
She has but learned now that she loves him still - but with the love not of a child but a woman."

RAPID TURNER.

NAVAL NOTES.

Latest From Mare Island - The Boston in a Bad State.

The following items are from the Call's navy column:

Commandant H. L. Howison has been laid up for several days with illness. He is on the mend and ready for duty.

The Ranger arrived at Corriento on the 28th of December, and is to be stationed for the present on the west coast of Central America to guard American interests there.

The Alliance has gone farther south.

The Albatross steamed away from the yard the fore part of last week, bound for San Diego to put in the remainder of the winter.

The vessels at the yard are the Mohican, Monterey and Patterson, with crews on board, and which could be sent away on short notice.

The Alert has her boilers out and machinery apart ready to be taken out. It would be a long time before she could be made ready for duty.

The Boston is lying dismantled at the wharf. Though badly in need of repairs, yet in a pinch it would not take long to put her in the same condition as when she came to the yard a few months ago.

The guard at the barracks is larger at present than for years past. A hundred and more could be sent away without any trouble. The Independence has a large crew on board, many of whom are drafted for the Olympia, but they could be sent away at an hour's notice, for it will be many months before the Olympia will be ready to receive her crew.

The latter part of the year will have come before the Monadnock will be ready for duty.

Major Pope, who is to command the Marine Guard at the barracks, will arrive the coming week and assume charge.

How to Cure La Grippe.

About a year ago I took a violent attack of la grippe. I coughed day and night for about six weeks; my wife then suggested that I try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. At first I could see no difference, but still kept taking it, and soon found that it was what I needed. If I got no relief from one dose I took another, and it was only a few days until I was free from the cough. I think people in general ought to know the value of this remedy, and I take pleasure in acknowledging the benefit I have received from it. Madison Mustard,
